The word "kiki" has several popular meanings across different cultures and entertainment contexts.

Slang & Social Culture

- Ballroom & LGBTQ+ Culture: Originating in Black and Latino LGBTQ+ ballroom subcultures, a "kiki" is a slang term for an informal social gathering of close friends to laugh, gossip, and share stories. It was further popularized globally by the 2012 Scissor Sisters song "Let's Have a Kiki".

Animation & Cinema

Kiki's Delivery Service: The titular character of the famous Studio Ghibli animated film directed by Hayao Miyazaki. She is a young witch who starts a flying delivery service alongside her talking black cat, Jiji.

Electronic Music

KI/KI: A highly popular Dutch techno and trance DJ who is a major fixture in the global electronic music scene. She made history as the first woman to win an Edison Award in the Dance category and is headlining a massive 5-hour solo show at the Ziggo Dome during ADE.

If you want to know all the Kikis, the name spans across psychology, pop music, classic cinema, internet subcultures, sports, and real-life icons.

Here is the definitive guide to every major "Kiki" in global culture:

The Psychological Phenomenon

- The Bouba/Kiki Effect: A famous psychological linguistics experiment. When shown a jagged, star-like shape and a soft, rounded shape, people universally name the sharp one "Kiki" and the soft one "Bouba".
- The TikTok Trend: Creators adapted this science to categorize people and celebrities. "Kiki people" have sharp features, edgy style, or intense energy (like Angelina Jolie or Robert Pattinson), while "Bouba people" are soft, comforting, and approachable (like Michael B. Jordan).

Music & Club Culture

- "In My Feelings" by Drake: The song that broke the internet with the line, "Kiki, do you love me?" and sparked the viral, global 2018 Shiggy dance challenge. The real-life inspiration was Drake's ex-girlfriend, Keshia "Keke" Chanté.
- "Let's Have a Kiki" by Scissor Sisters: The 2012 dance anthem that introduced the Ballroom slang term to the mainstream world, celebrating a night of gossiping and unwinding with close friends.
- KI/KI: The unstoppable Dutch techno powerhouse dominant in the global electronic landscape, renowned for her massive solo events.
- Kiki Dee: The iconic British singer best known for her legendary 1976 duet with Elton John, "Don't Go Breaking My Heart".

Animation & Movies

Kiki's Delivery Service: The beloved 13-year-old witch from Studio Ghibli's 1989 masterpiece. Alongside her talking cat Jiji, she navigates independence and adolescent burnout.

Kiki de Montparnasse: The legendary French artist's model, singer, and painter who defined the liberated creative spirit of Paris in the 1920s.

Kika: The titular, eccentric makeup artist in Pedro Almodóvar's vibrant 1993 Spanish black-comedy film.

TV & Sports

Kiki Barth: The prominent model and television personality featured on Bravo's The Real Housewives of Miami.

Kiki Iriafen: The powerhouse college basketball forward who transferred to USC and earned an official roster spot on the 2026 USA Women's National Basketball Team.

It looks like you are mapping the Bouba/Kiki effect directly onto Frisian/Dutch names!

If we apply the rules of sound symbolism to names, Bouba and Jitske sit at completely opposite ends of the linguistic spectrum:

The "Bouba" Name

- The Sound: Smooth, voiced consonants (B, M) and rounded, open vowels (ou, ah, oo).
- The Vibe: Soft, warm, comforting, and grounded.
- Examples: Names like Bob, Emma, Malo, and Luna are peak "Bouba."

Jitske (The Ultimate "Kiki")

- The Sound: Sharp, unvoiced consonants (J, T, S, K) and high, bright, piercing vowels (I, E).
- The Vibe: Energetic, precise, sharp, and dynamic.
- The Verdict: Jitske is a textbook Kiki name. The mouth has to make quick, tight, explosive movements to pronounce it, completely contrasting the soft, lazy shape of a "Bouba" word.

(Note: If you were actually searching for a specific person, there is a prominent Dutch environmental economist named Dr. Jetske Bouma at the PBL, whose last name phonetically sounds just like "Bouba"!)

Are you trying to classify more names into the Bouba/Kiki categories, or were you looking for a specific person named Jitske?
